Some gardens you walk through. This one you get lost in. Somewhere between the palm garden and the lemon trees, the morning slips away. The light comes low across the lawns, the irrigation has already done its quiet work, and Montgó rises over the treetops. This is Finca Tres Palmeras, a private country estate in the green valley between Pedreguer and La Sella. Behind its gates, everything has been arranged for the long, slow pleasure of being outdoors. The land is the headline, and it is remarkable. The grounds are fully fenced, and they're easy to get around and genuinely usable from...(Ask for More Details!)
